

The Ski Trip

Lee, Mom, and Dad packed their suitcases for a ski trip. Grandma was going too. But Lee was worried.

Grandma found her old wooden skis and ski poles.

At the ski resort, the snow glittered in the sunshine.

Lee put on green boots, while Grandma bought sunglasses.

Grandma got on the ski lift. It went slowly up the mountain.

I'll wait for you in the café at the top.

Lee took his skiing lesson. His teacher taught him how to ski.

This is very slippery.

Whizz! A skier flashed by, twisting and turning.

Wow! That's fast!
